

Nicole Corbett, CRPC®

Nicole would like the opportunity to educate you about different types of investments, and which ones might be a good fit for your situation. She enjoys giving credit union members the tools they need to make well-informed financial decisions. Your money is important, and she wants to help make sure you can reach your financial goals.

Nicole completed her undergraduate work at Seattle University and attended three semesters of law school at Indiana University - Bloomington. After law school, she began working in investments and accounting and became a registered representative to sell securities products. She also obtained her Chartered Retirement Planning Counselor (CRPC®) designation. Her legal, accounting, investment, and insurance experience give her a unique background to provide you with financial advice.

In her free time, Nicole enjoys biking on the Heritage Trail with her three young boys, working on projects around the house with her husband, and helping her grandma clean out her basement while listening to stories about her life. She also loves to travel and has spent time in Europe. She values time with family and friends and focuses on making the most out of every day.
